

CCS Newsletter, Summer 2024

l

The CCS Director, Dr Aris Komporozos-Athanasidou, will be visiting Santiago, Chile (Universidad Diego Portales, and Universidad Central) and Buenos Aires, Argentina (Universidad Nacional de San Martín, and NYU Buenos Aires) to build collaboration with local research groups and strengthen CCS links with South American institutions.

a

CCS is delighted to announce that their first cohort of Visiting Research Fellows will arrive at UCL in the Autumn Term 2024. Over the next few months, we will welcome Dr Ana Valdivia (Oxford Internet Institute, University of Oxford), Dr Amin Samman (City, University of London) and Dr Caroline Shenaz Hossein (University of Toronto). They will be working with colleagues at the UCL Institute for Global Prosperity, SELCS and the Development Planning Unit, and developing relationships between their institutions and UCL.

l l a l l

The CCS is pleased to confirm it has received a donation from The New Institute, to support its work and research as the centre grows. The New Institute's mission is to nourish transformation through interdisciplinary and trans-sectoral collaboration. The Institute is committed to incubating new ideas, expanding the influence of work already done, and making a tangible difference through its work. Their activities are clustered around three Research Areas: