Dear John

I am a film PhD student of first year, currently I have got a bad and supervisor already that he is willing to study here longer for his not good present performance and his opinion also has been accepted by his supervisor and school, therefore I do doubt, a university, an educational institute, wanting me to leave just being unsatisfied with my first performance.

I am an international student and came here studying with my son; if school wants me to leave, this will make me do not know how to open my mouth to tell my son and my family in China and to face my future.

I strongly claim that I have right and intension to study here, so too. You would need to ask them about the experience of other students in
